- The loss by the burning of the Memphis wood and willow ware factory is as follows: On building and machinery, $20 000; on material within building, $3000; on lumber, $4000; on horses and mules, $2000; damage to lumber, $1000; total loss, $30 000. The total insurance on building and machinery amounted to $17,500, and was divided as follows: Memphis City fire and general insurance company, $3000; Panters insurance company, $3000; Merchants insurance company, $2000; Mississippi Valley insurance company, $3000; Paonix, of Memphis, $2900; Amszon, of Cincinnati, Ohio, $2000; Globe, of Chicago, $2000. The lumber was insured for $3000. o' which $1000 was in the Planters, and $2000 in the Bluff City, of Memphis. In addition to the above the work-chests and tools of forty-six mechanics were burned. We understand that immediate steps will be taken to rebuild the factory and works, and expect to resume operations by December. This is gratifying news to our citizens, for every one deplores the loss of the enterprise.

so much labor upon "church doctrine fully, I doubt if you would have thus written on the threadbare subject of the sin of "schism." If you will now take the trouble to examine the original Greek you will learn that the "schism" which inspiration condemns so severely is in no case separation from a church, whether with cause or "causeless," but always dissension and bitter controversy in a church held together by external bonds. It is an angry split in a body ecclesiastic, not a secession from it in the interest of truth and peace. Search the scriptures as carefully as you please, my dear sir, and you will find no case where schism and separation from church are identical. Accordingly suspect the Word of God being the referee, the Protestant Episcopal church is one of the most unequivocally schismatic bodies in christendom. For where is there another, unless it is the church of Rome, so split into contending factions, with the battle raging along the entire line of opinions and principles, ecclesi-astical, ritual, doctrinal! He, therefore, who thus hurls the charge of schism, would do well to remember the old warning to "those who dwell in glass houses." You accuse me of using my influence, such as it is, in the formation of another sect, thus adding to the confusion and strife of the christian world. KAHN & FREIBERG. I will not stop to point out your misspplication of the word "sect." It enough that you wholly misunderstand the character, mission, and influence of the Reformed Episcopal church. If I
